A ROMANCE THAT WAS.

There's a graceful little clerk
Who goes every day to work
In a big department store down town;
She rides on the train with me,
Oh, her smile is fair to see,
And her eyes are big and velvety and brown.

I have seen her every day
As she rode upon her way
To deal out lace and linen in the store;
I have looked at her and she
Has looked sweetly back at me.
But, alas! I fear that we shall drift no more.

A villain yesterday
Snatched her pocketbook away,
And she turned to me and cried: "Oh, stop him, sir!"
But the thief pulled out a gun,
So I left them on the run,
And I rather guess that I am through with her.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

James Burger Gets a Scalp Wound While Resting on the Railroad.

The death of Mrs. Eliza J. Shepard occurred yesterday at her home on Union street.

Mrs. Shepard was born June 7th, 1834, and on July 3d, 1851, was united in marriage to William E. Shepard.

Early in the year 1872 she became soundly converted to God, and united with the M. E. Church of this city, continuing a faithful member until her death.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. at the home on Union street with services by the Rev. F. W. Harrop of the M. E. Church. Interment in the Maysville Cemetery.

The City Council of Maysville, even though it may have been individually opposed to the part it played, yet heard the voice of the people and recognizing the popular clamor of its constituency gallantly surrendered and thus demonstrated its will to be the will of the majority.

The concessions by Colonel Baldwin and Mr. C. D. Pearce were magnanimous and the work of public-spirited men accomplished the fact, giving to Mason county free turnpikes and removing all barriers to Maysville's commercial life and announcing in stentorian voice that our merchants invite the traffic and trade of their rightful possessions, the contiguous territory which feeds us.

If nothing else had been accomplished by the Board of Trade its life should be crowned, but at its solicitation the Adams Express Company has placed a 'phone in its office, which is a great convenience to the public.

The C. and O. and L. and N. Railways have, at its request, granted special transportation at reduced rates of fare, which brought hundreds of dollars to our merchants.

By its methods of publicity the deserted streets and lonesome stores have teemed and thronged with buyers.

A resumption of old-time stock sales was made possible by having Council grant street privileges and the flocks and herds and droves of animals have induced the buyers from far and near to seek our excellent markets, and the last act to which the public's attention is called is the project which is about to crystallize into a public improvement, the pleasure of which shall find its best expression in a public demonstration of approval.

The unsightly and foul-smelling shed which has been used as a place of ingress and egress for so many years by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad is to be razed to the ground.

Conway immediately shut off steam, reversed the engine and applied the airbrakes, but before the train could be stopped the engine and several cars had passed over the man, mangle him in such a way that identification was difficult. The only thing known about him is that he was an umbrella mender and was in Maysville yesterday. As to his name and where he came from nothing is known.

A matchbox was found in one of his trouser pockets, and a piece of newspaper was found stuffed between his shirt and trouser band.

He is a large man, very nearly six feet in height, is about 45 years of age, has sandy hair and mustache and about a week's growth of beard on his face.

The remains were taken to Q. A. Means & Son's undertaking establishment, where they were prepared for burial.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Resume of What It Has Already Accomplished Here.

SOME THINGS IN STORE FOR US.

Possibly there never has been in the annals of promoting projects, having for their object the public's weal, one scheme which went unchallenged by some one or more, whom we style in modern vernacular carping critics, who cannot be turned from prejudice though mountains of evidence stand to contradict their position.

All ideas are but theories until executed. Then their merit stamps them good or bad; any opinion is but a dream unless made real by practical results.

Opining along these premises we shall set forth a resume of work accomplished by the Maysville Board of Trade.

At its birth many of our citizens predicted weakness, if not a fetus still born; others there were who, taking up arms, openly opposed it; while the class which seeks to blight by ridicule made up the doubting Thomases.

No great enterprise ever conquered having no foes, opposition being the life of trade in the commercial world, and attaining a stature brooding no defeat and not paralleled for sturdiness and growth, the same spirit must energize the benevolent, the humane and the charitable actions of life.

In presenting to the readers of THE LEDGER a recapitulation of the work accomplished by the Board of Trade it is done with a feeling of justifiable pride, not as complimentary to one man, not as a eulogy to any set of men, but in honest words of praise of concentration, in encomiums of unity, which is but public opinion boiled down.

When the issue between our Fiscal Court and the owners of Mason county highways took a widening turn and propositions and contracts were made each to the other only to be refused and turned down, it was the office of mediation which prompted the Board of Trade to offer its services. It was never dreamed of in the councils of that body to attach itself to either side. No accusations of any sort were ever hinted at, loyally believing that the owner of property has a right to fix his price and to attack any methods which might reduce in value his property, as well as confidence in the public servants, who fulfill the will of the people by a careful, judicious and inquiring moving ere they commit acts or pass motions which would be contrary to their oath and against public policy.

But, confronting a state which held dire influence were it not quenched, facing a problem of such importance as to demand arbitration and cool judgment ere the spirit of frenzy burst and the outrages of lawlessness prevail, which always hurts the people and not the individual, were the inspiring motives which prompted it to move in the matter.

Thus briefly is the reason why the Board of Trade offered to advise and clarify a clashing issue and a vexing problem.

Practically it went to work; in a business-like manner it proceeded until just ten days passed from its taking hold until a peaceful settlement forever removed the tollgates from our county highways and relegated to oblivion the sting of reproach which guards brought. The Fiscal Court should have due heed of praise for its quickness in seeing what the public wanted and for its celerity in granting that request.

The City Council of Maysville, even though it may have been individually opposed to the part it played, yet heard the voice of the people and recognizing the popular clamor of its constituency gallantly surrendered and thus demonstrated its will to be the will of the majority.

The concessions by Colonel Baldwin and Mr. C. D. Pearce were magnanimous and the work of public-spirited men accomplished the fact, giving to Mason county free turnpikes and removing all barriers to Maysville's commercial life and announcing in stentorian voice that our merchants invite the traffic and trade of their rightful possessions, the contiguous territory which feeds us.
